Membership Structure & UI / UX Content Specification

1. Page Purpose

The Membership Levels page is the decision point where a visitor chooses how closely they want GEMS to travel with them. It should explain the model clearly without feeling like a conventional subscription or price-comparison site.

The visitor should first identify the journey that applies to them, then understand the three levels of GEMS support available within that journey.

2. Membership Model

Explorer	Companion	Navigator
Discover and explore	Personalized guidance and ongoing support	Deeper, dedicated and concierge-style support
Free	Monthly / Annual	Monthly / Annual

The three levels remain consistent across all three journeys.

- Explorer is the entry point;
- Companion represents an ongoing relationship;
- Navigator represents the closest level of guidance.

3. Page Introduction

Headline: Every journey is unique. Choose the level of guidance that's right for you.

Supporting message: How closely do you want GEMS to travel with you? Whether you're exploring possibilities or seeking dedicated guidance, there's a membership designed to support your journey.

This is the membership decision framework already established on the StartWithGEMS Home page.

4. Journey Selection

Show the three journeys before the detailed plans. Do not place all nine plans into one initial pricing grid.

 Educational Journey	 Career Journey	 Growth Journey
Students	Professionals	Business
Education, preparation, planning, and support throughout the student's journey.	Career development, relocation, licensing, professional planning, and international opportunities.	Workforce solutions, trusted connections, business support, and longer-term growth.

5. Student Membership — Educational Journey

- Explorer is for students beginning their journey;
- Companion is for students actively preparing to study abroad or build their future;
- Navigator provides the closest level of ongoing support.

8. Business Retainer

Retainer is separate from the three standard membership levels. The Retainer is a dedicated support arrangement with specific pricing discussed with GEMS.

Positioning: For organizations whose needs require a more specific ongoing support arrangement.

CTA: Call to Discuss / Discuss Your Needs

Pricing: Contact GEMS for specific pricing.

9. Monthly And Annual Selection

- Use a simple Monthly / Annual control within the selected journey.
- Do not force visitors to compare monthly and annual versions simultaneously.

Your Journey. Your Choice. Your GEMS.

You do not have to know everything before you begin.

Start where you are. Choose the support you need. And as your journey evolves, GEMS can evolve with you.

Whether you choose to explore independently, make GEMS your companion, or let GEMS become your navigator, the goal remains the same:

To help you move forward with greater clarity, confidence, and trust.

Developer Notes

- Present the three journeys as separate selectable sections/tabs rather than displaying all nine membership cards simultaneously.
- Within each journey, maintain the consistent progression:

Explorer → Companion → Navigator.

- Use the agreed icons consistently:
 -  Explorer — Binoculars
 -  Companion — Handshake
 -  Navigator — Compass
- Use the agreed CTAs exactly:
 - Explore For Free
 - Make GEMS Your Companion
 - Let GEMS Be Your Navigator
- Provide a simple Monthly / Annual selection mechanism where applicable.

- The pricing should remain visually secondary to the journey and level-of-support messaging.
- Do not make the page feel like a conventional e-commerce pricing table. The visual treatment should communicate choice, guidance, relationship, and trust.

10. Membership Positioning

Choose How Closely You Want GEMS Beside You

Every journey is different. Some people simply need the right information to get started. Others want someone they can turn to as their journey unfolds. And some prefer the reassurance of having GEMS more closely involved along the way.

Choose the level of support that feels right for your journey.

Explorer

Start With GEMS. Explore At Your Own Pace.

A simple way to enter the GEMS network, discover valuable resources, understand your options, and begin making informed decisions.

Best for you if:

You are exploring your options, gathering information, or simply want to know what's available before deciding how much support you need.

CTA: Explore for FREE

Companion

Keep GEMS By Your Side As You Move Forward.

For those who want more than information. Companion gives you access to personalized guidance and ongoing support as your plans begin to take shape.

Best for you if:

You know where you're headed, but would value having a trusted guide to help you navigate the decisions, questions, and challenges along the way.

CTA: Make GEMS your Companion

Let GEMS Travel More Closely With You.

For journeys where having dedicated guidance can make a meaningful difference. Navigator provides a deeper level of personalized assistance, support, and connection throughout your journey.

Best for you if:

You want GEMS more closely involved—helping you navigate important decisions, connecting you with trusted resources, and providing greater continuity of support.

CTA: Let GEMS be your Navigator

11. Trust And Service Boundaries

GEMS provides certain guidance and consulting services directly, while also serving as a trusted connection point to carefully selected providers within the GEMS Trusted Network. The purpose of the membership is not to suggest that GEMS itself performs every service a member may require, but rather that GEMS helps the member understand what they need, provides guidance where we can, and connects them with the right trusted resource when specialized assistance is required.

For services that require licensed, regulated, or otherwise specialized professional expertise, GEMS acts as the trusted guide and connector, while the actual professional service is provided by the appropriately qualified provider. The relevant GEMS service page and member workflow will always make this distinction clear, so members always understand who is providing the service, what GEMS' role is, and where professional responsibility begins and ends.

Here's I how see the vision for the implementation:

1. The Presentation Model

The existing 3 × 3 membership structure remains intact. The change is simply to present it in a more approachable sequence:

This is a visitor-facing presentation decision only. The three journeys and nine underlying membership plans remain exactly as currently defined.

2. Journey Selection — Three Separate Cards

At the beginning of the Membership Levels section, present the three journeys as three separate, visually balanced cards. These cards are the visitor's first choice.

Interaction: selecting a journey should reveal or navigate to that journey's existing three membership plans. Use the site's existing interaction pattern where possible; do not introduce a new backend mechanism merely for this presentation.

3. Selected Journey — Three Membership Cards

Once a journey is selected, present its Explorer, Companion, and Navigator plans together in a clean three-column layout. This is the appropriate place for the existing 3-plan comparison within that journey.

The detailed benefits and approved pricing already contained in the main Membership Levels document remain unchanged. This addendum only specifies the visual grouping.

4. What I Mean By “Do Not Show Nine Plans As One Grid”

The visitor should not be confronted with nine full pricing cards simultaneously on first arrival.

- Keep the three journeys visually separate.
- Within the selected journey, show the three applicable membership levels together.
- A compact journey selector, tabs, accordion, or card-based navigation may be used depending on the existing site's components.
- The visitor should never have to scan nine full plan descriptions at once to understand the first decision.

5. Monthly And Annual Pricing

The presentation should use a simple Monthly / Annual selection mechanism within the selected journey.

- Do not display two competing price sets in every membership card at the same time if a simple toggle can present them more cleanly.
- Where annual pricing is currently designated “Call to Discuss,” retain that wording.
- Pricing should be easy to find but visually secondary to the journey and level-of-support message.

7. Membership CTAs

Use the agreed relationship-oriented CTAs already established in the Membership Levels document:

- Explorer — Explore For Free
- Companion — Make GEMS Your Companion
- Navigator — Let GEMS Be Your Navigator

Do not replace these with generic subscription language such as “Buy Now,” “Subscribe,” or “Upgrade.” The CTA is intended to reinforce the GEMS relationship model.

8. No Change To The Existing Architecture

You should treat this as a front-end presentation adjustment. No changes are requested to the existing membership architecture, database, plan IDs, payment processing, authentication, entitlement logic, or subscription workflows.

- Existing plan structure: unchanged.
- Existing pricing: unchanged unless separately approved.
- Existing benefit definitions: unchanged.
- Existing subscription processing: unchanged.
- Existing member/account architecture: unchanged.
- Only the visitor-facing grouping, visual hierarchy, and navigation between the existing plans are being refined.

9. UI/UX Design Principles (Developer Notes)

- Present the three journeys first as three distinct visual choices.
- After a journey is selected, present its three membership levels as three clean, consistent cards.
- Do not display all nine full membership cards simultaneously on the initial view.
- Keep Explorer, Companion, and Navigator visually consistent across Educational, Career, and Growth.
- Use the agreed icons consistently: binoculars for Explorer, handshake for Companion, compass for Navigator.
- Use the agreed CTAs consistently: Explore For Free; Make GEMS Your Companion; Let GEMS Be Your Navigator.
- Keep the existing membership content and architecture intact.
- Use existing site components and interaction patterns wherever practical.
- The page should feel like choosing how closely GEMS will accompany the visitor—not like selecting a commodity subscription.
